ANU Family Friendly Committee

Second ANU Family Friendly Forum

Tuesday 20 November 2018, 12-2pm

The ANU Family Friendly Committee, PARSA and ANUSA invite staff and students to workshop and refine a set of family-friendly recommendations that the ANU community would like the university to address. It builds on the ANU Community Forum: Is ANU Family Friendly? (held on 20 August 2018), the resulting Is ANU Family Friendly? Discussion Report, and the Family Friendly Survey which was run in Oct-Nov 2018. The workshop will be facilitated by Richard Baker, Pro Vice-Chancellor (University Experience). The forum will run from 12-2pm, with lunch provided. Registration is required for catering purposes.

When: Tuesday 20 November 2018, 12 – 2pm (lunch provided)

Where: The Drawing Room, University House, 1 Balmain Cres, Acton

Registration: <https://www.trybooking.com/ZDVI>

The ANU Family Friendly Committee is an ANU group constituted under the ANU Gender Institute working closely with several committees, stakeholders and representatives across campus and from NTEU, ANUSA, PARSA, Childcare Centres and ANU Chancery to help make ANU an inclusive, family friendly space and community. Family-friendliness is broadly defined and includes diverse dimensions of family life and responsibilities.
