The movement against sexual violence in India

Kavita Krishnan is joint secretary of the All India Progressive Women's Association. Krishnan has become an international spokesperson for the movement against sexual violence that followed the gang rape of a student in Delhi. The movement demanded a woman's right to live without fear of rape and free from the patriarchal control of the family and community. Krishnan is also a central leader of the Communist Party of India (Marxist-Leninist) and editor of Liberation, the party's central newspaper.
