

The Australian Prime Ministers Centre invites you to the launch of

ColdLight

The perfect conclusion to the Edith Campbell-Berry trilogy by Frank Moorhouse

In Edith Campbell-Berry, Frank Moorhouse has created a heroine who is spirited, industrious, intelligent, resourceful and eminently fascinating. In this final volume, Edith has decamped to Canberra with her husband, Ambrose, to start anew after the failure of the League of Nations. It's 1950 and Canberra is being built to be a city of the future.

You are invited to a Q&A session with author Frank Moorhouse and interviewer Professor Kim Rubenstein to learn more about Edith Campbell-Berry, a turbulent period in Australia's history and the prime ministers of the time.

Frank Moorhouse was supported by an Australian Prime Ministers Centre Fellowship to research the historical events that provide the background to Cold Light. Professor Kim Rubenstein is Director of the Centre for International and Public Law at the Australian National University.

Saturday 26 November 2011

2pm, House of Representatives Chamber
Museum of Australian Democracy
at Old Parliament House
18 King George Terrace Parkes, Canberra

Free entry

RSVP essential by Thursday 24 November
info@moadoph.gov.au or telephone 02 6270 8215

MUSEUM OF AUSTRALIAN
DEMOCRACY

OLD PARLIAMENT HOUSE